Honors English 9

Write a letter in the voice of one character to another. For example, you could write a letter from Pip to Estella, from Joe to Pip, or from Biddy to Pip. (You are not limited to these suggestions; any characters will work.)

Your letter should:

- Be in the voice of the character you've chosen to write about. Be sure to review passages in the novel which will help you to understand your character's thought processes, diction, and conflicts.
- Develop an idea that you think your character would want to say to the recipient of the letter
- Include specific references to events in the text and effectively convey the emotional state of your character
- Be about one page long
